

Programme PhD Day 2010

Scales in Geosciences

Concept of PhD Day 2010

The PhD Day of the Helmholtz Centre Potsdam GFZ is the yearly platform on which the PhD students who work at the research facility of the GFZ meet, to present their current research projects to their fellow PhD students, but also to all interested colleagues of the GFZ, invited guests, and supervisors from the universities and other research institutions.

Additionally, this day is dedicated to increase communications and networking amongst all participants on a scientific but informal level. Enjoy your PhD Day 2010 at the GFZ!

Poster Session

This year there are three poster sessions according to the scales the authors relate their work to.

Session I: 10.45 - 11.30
Micro scale topics

Session II: 11.30 - 12.15
Meso scale topics

Session III: 13.15 – 14.00
Macro scale topics

Poster Awards

Yes, there is poster award and your poster could win. The winning posters are selected by a jury of GFZ scientists who will look at your posters during the poster session. Therefore, be at your poster during your poster session time. Additionally, there is the "audience award" which is determined by your vote. Write down the numbers of your two favourite posters and leave your vote paper, which will be handed to you at registration, in the voting box at the reception desk before 4 pm.

Grandma talk

Due to the great variety of scientific fields at GFZ, it is now and then nice to look over the rim and see what others do. With this kind of talk the speaker gives an easy to understand overview on what he or she is doing all day long so that a grandma could understand. Or even other PhD students.
